Community Exchange
Southern Highlands

Need help with your computer?
Need help doing your grocery shopping?
Want to know how to make soap?
Need a hand in the garden?

All of these services and more are on offer now at Community Exchange Southern Highlands.

CESH is a LETSystem, which helps local people trade goods and services with one another. It promotes local employment by using the community's true wealth—the skills and energy of its people.

Anybody in the Southern Highlands can join and being a member is easy and full of opportunities. Transactions are conducted using the local currency, Gibs, which you can spend before you earn. It sounds crazy, but it works.

Check out which members are offering the goods and services that you need, contact them and away you go!

Go to www.cesh.org.au for more information (including ideas on what you can offer) or to join.
